Scared, they tip-toed towards room 13. first in line was Ellie, the smallest of them all. She did not like children calling her small over and over again. If they did not stop she would get angry.

Quickly, John turned to Ellie and whispered, "What did you hear that noise?"

"yes!" answered Ellie, "Nonsense" John replied. "But Blaze that torch over on that coffin."

Ellie Grabbed the stake with that rock. madison gripped the cross and Gethin held the cross aloft. They were now ready.

All of a sudden Gethin slowly raised his stake and pointed it towards the vicious vampire's red rooby heart. At that moment, Ellie shone her trident torch on the slippery silky blood drenched the coffin. Then the vicious vampire's evil eyes shot open. His silky blood eyes yelled in terror as he saw madison peasing the black heart he fell back in the coffin. John screamed, "we all did it yes yes".
